MyHomeDox® Report Usage

The MyHomeDox® Report is a trademarked product and is the exclusive property of MyHomeDox. It is provided solely for personal use by authorized users and is not for resale, redistribution, or reproduction in any form. Access to the MyHomeDox Report is available only through MyHomeDox. Any unauthorized use, duplication, or distribution is strictly prohibited and may result in legal action.

1. Reliance on Reported Data

MyHomeDox reports are based on information supplied by various sources, including homeowners, contractors, service providers, and public records.

2. Incomplete Information

MyHomeDox acknowledges that they may not have a complete history of every property, as not all maintenance or improvements are reported to their data sources.

- Repairs or upgrades done by contractors who do not report to MyHomeDox may be missing from the report.
- Work performed by homeowners themselves may not appear unless it is documented and submitted.
- Older municipal records may not be digitized or compatible with current data systems, making historical information harder to retrieve.

3. Data Accuracy

MyHomeDox reports are only as accurate as the information provided to them. Errors in data entry or missing documentation can lead to inaccuracies in the report.

4. Dynamic Information

MyHomeDox reports can change after your initial request as new data is added. Therefore, consider the report as a snapshot in time rather than a final, unchanging record.

5. No Substitute for a Professional Inspection

MyHomeDox recommends combining the report with a physical inspection by a qualified home inspector to get a comprehensive understanding of the property's condition.

6. Third-Party Reliance

MyHomeDox is a third-party reporting service. Contributors emphasize that they do not guarantee the completeness or accuracy of MyHomeDox data and are not liable for decisions made based solely on the report.
